

The Güdel experts

Introducing two new gearbox families

A highly successful launch

Istanbul, March 20st 2015. Güdel presented its high-precision planetary gearbox and its high-performance miter gear for the first time at the WIN automation fair in Turkey. Under the headline „High Precision & High Performance“, a team of more than 10 Güdel experts demonstrated the advantages of the new gearbox families.

Even with its increased area compared to previous years, the stand did not do justice to the immense traffic it attracted. It was literally overrun, and at times interested parties had to queue up. Visitors were able to inspect various gearbox sizes in different versions from each family and have their features explained to them from all perspectives. The corresponding drive trains were also exhibited as well as a selection of our proven linear guides and various rack designs.

Another eye catcher was a Track Motion that gave an impressive demonstration of how the work area of industrial robots can be increased and how the swiftest movements can be run precisely and with repeat accuracy in the most confined spaces. Visitors praised Güdel's presence at the show as successful in every way.
